

Daniel Synder

Deputy Director, Government Contracts Research

Dan Snyder is Bloomberg Government's deputy director of government contracts research. Prior to joining Bloomberg, he served as an analyst focusing on GSA/VA Federal Supply Schedule consulting. He holds an undergraduate degree in political science from Siena College and Masters in Business Administration and an M.S. in government contracts at The George Washington University.